

Hello,

I'm Tim, a Designer and Front End Developer who enjoys building experiences and components for the web. I'm at home when mixing design with prototyping. I enjoy user-testing and research when solving problems.

Experience

August 2018 — Present

Bank of New Zealand — Digital Designer

Working within a design team of 12, I helped bridge the gap between design and development, primarily working within the design systems team.

01. Design & Prototypes for 'Life Moments' a series of an online help articles delivered for the public facing bnz website.
02. Re-design of the overview screens for both the iPhone & Android app store
03. Redesign of 'secure messages' flows to help customers get their messages to the right people faster.

May 2015 — August 2018

Vocus Communications — UI/UX Lead

Working within an Agile development environment as UI/UX lead for the main application development team at Vocus. The role established UI and component guidelines to ensure the clear direction & alignment of a consistent UI for both marketing and app teams. Worked closely with other dev-team leaders and stakeholders to bring a consistent vision for the applications delivered and used by the wider business.

01. Produced a front-end redesign of Vocus One (Vocus' premier customer portal)
02. Guided other Front End developers and managed UI guidelines within the Application Development team.
03. Designed & Implemented a web-based mobile experience, for managing fibre enclosures across the Vocus Network.
